4. Commitment

4.1. Compliance of legislation and internal regulations

Code application may never suppose a default of the legal provisions in the country where DERCOSA work. If any local behavior or ethical code exists, this will prevail over any other internal normative, unless this one is more restricted. In order to follow the decisions taken by employees, they are traceable from the point of view of regulatory compliance, so that the adequacy of decisions to internal standards is justifiable, verifiable, in the case of review by third parties or the company itself.

DERCOSA is committed to ease this information to its employees for their understanding. DERCOSA also has a consul and notification procedure which allows any person to confidentially report any irregularity.

4.2. Compliance of agreements and conventions

DERCOSA accepts as part of its internal regulations, the content of agreements and conventions, national or international, which are adhered. The agreement Annex I is attached and will be constantly uploaded.
